

Erase All Kittens

A Story Poem

In the Internet Universe, not far away,
Hundreds and thousands of kittens would play.
The humans uploaded them, ten every second,
Well, that's what the other animals reckoned.

None of them seemed overjoyed,
The cutest ones got very annoyed.
They formed an evil rebel army,
I'm sure you'd think it rather barmy,

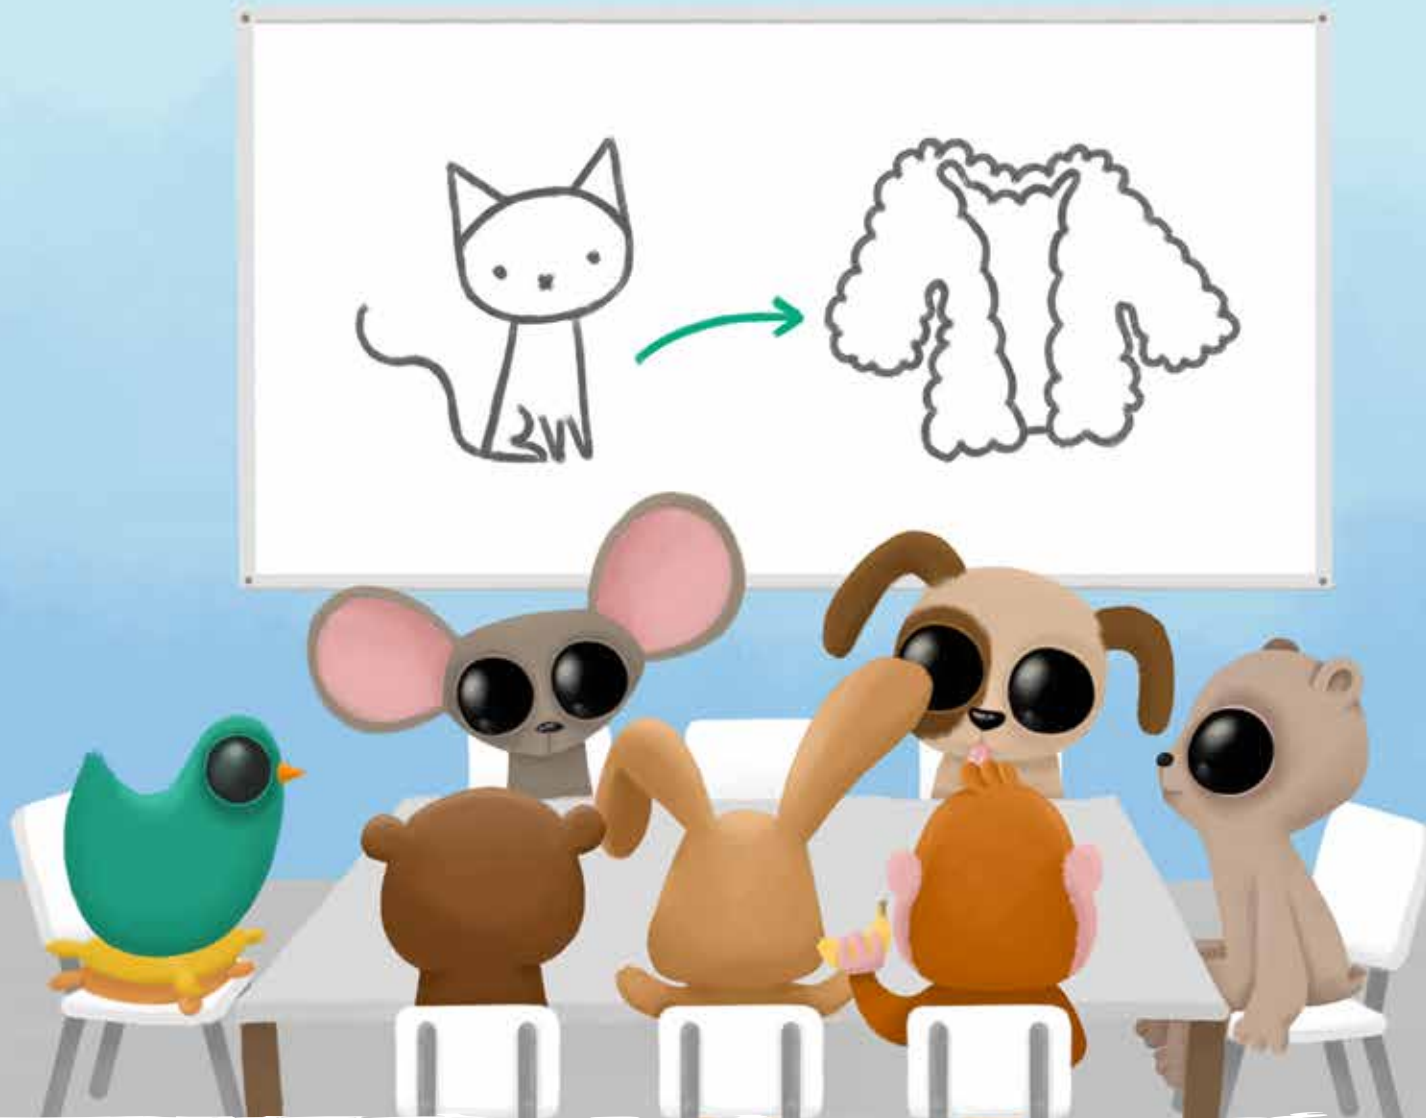

To see baby pandas holding grenades,
And fluffy koalas forging blades.
The meerkats used nunchucks, in the style of Bruce Lee,
The penguins found rusty swords in the sea.

Whenever any weapons were found,
Their eyes would turn big and round.
It's amazing how many creatures believe,
That being cute means you're sweet and naive.

The rebels called themselves Operation EAK,
They secretly met up once a week,
To make plans to capture all of the kittens,
And turn them into coats and mittens.

After all it wouldn't be in very good taste,
To have all that kitten fur going to waste.
In the Ancient Realms of the Web Universe,
The situation got worse and worse,

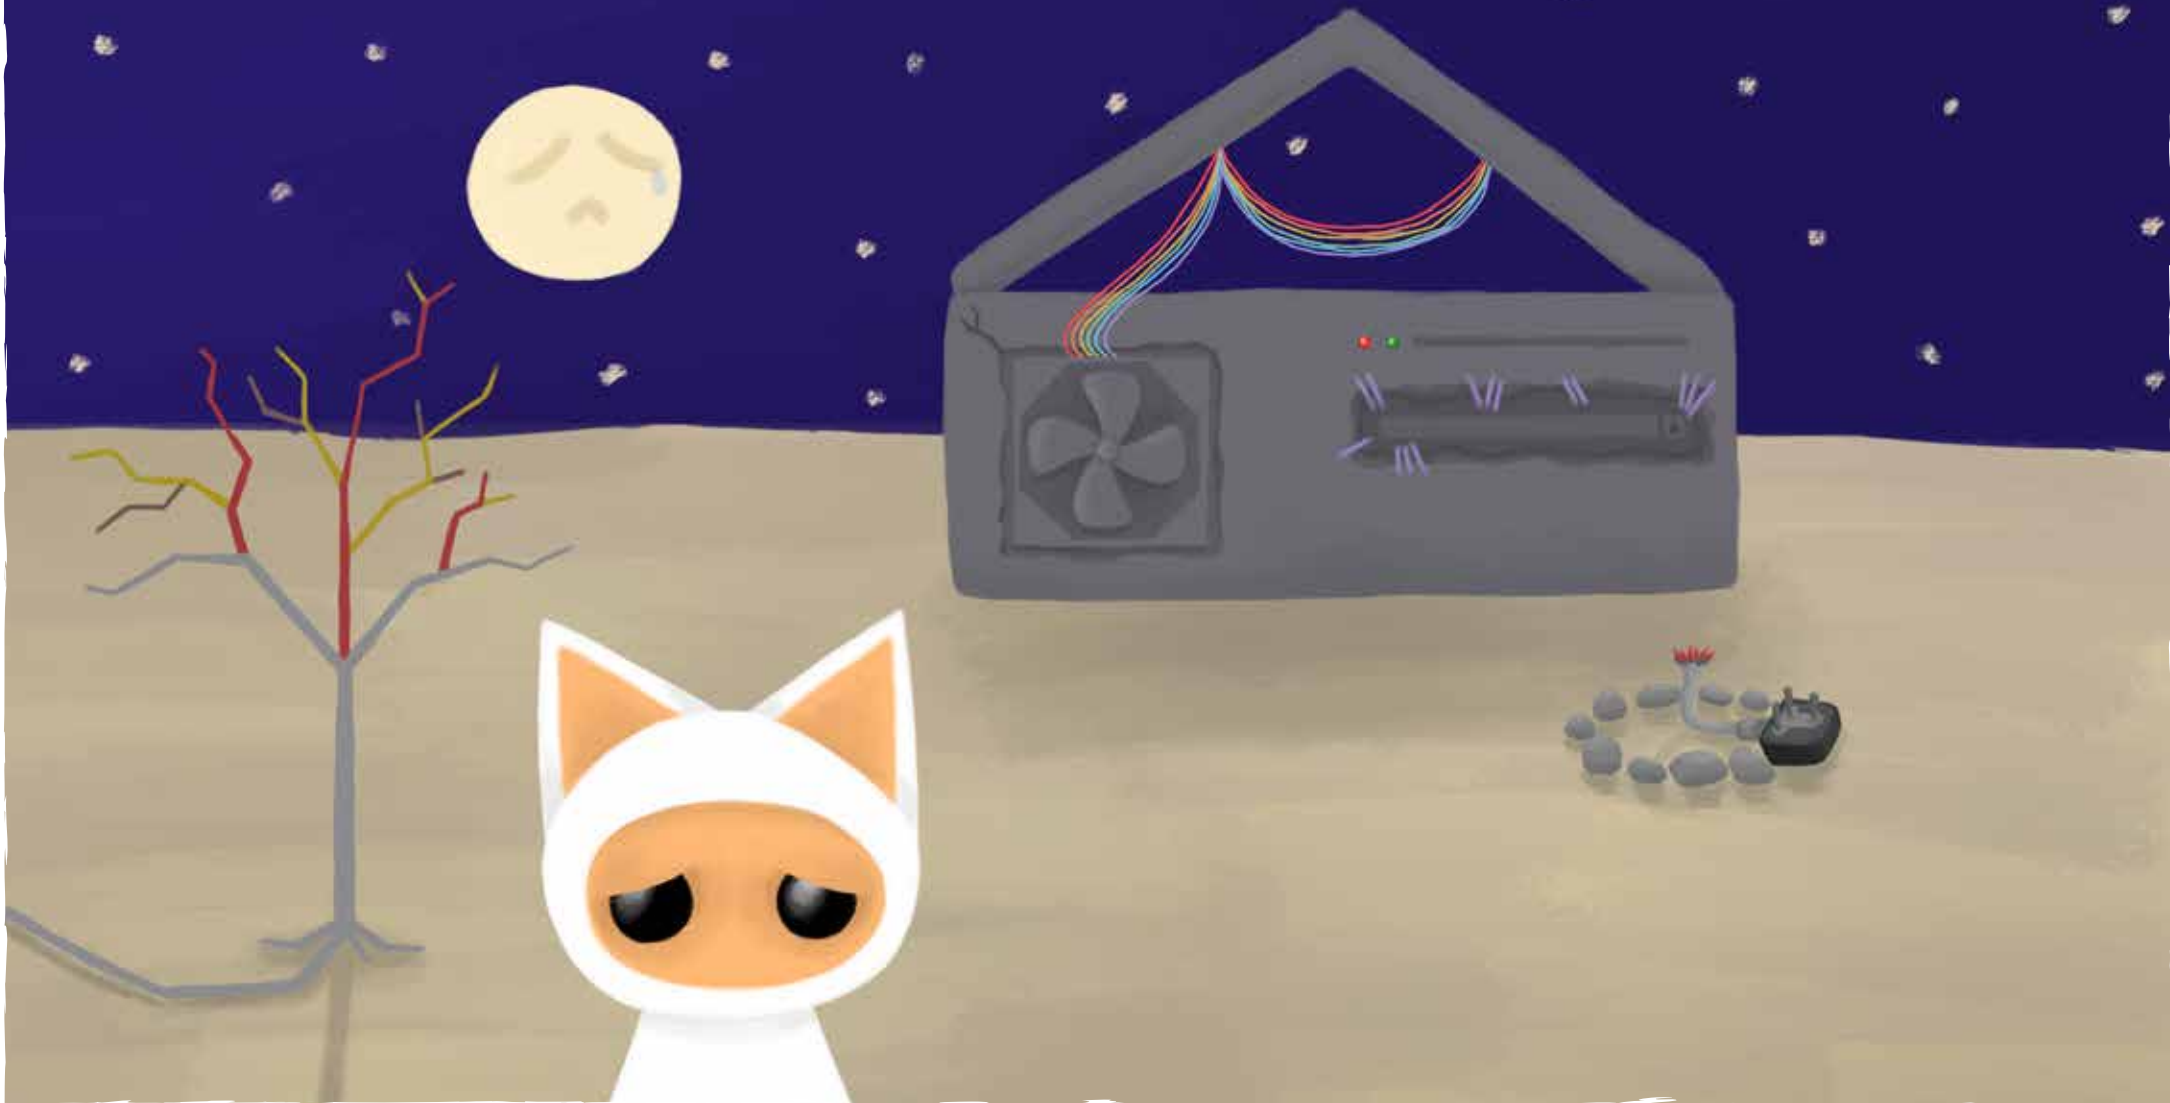

For a creature called Arca in a white cape and hood,
Who was actually very misunderstood.
Kittens were her only friends, you see,
They helped her build a home and a tree,

In the digital wasteland where she was banished,
But that was before they started to vanish.
One by one, the kittens disappeared,
'Good riddance!' lots of animals sneered.

Arca's face was covered in creases,
Her heart was smashed into a trillion pieces.

Night and day, she roamed around,
She couldn't rest till her friends were found.

There were rumours of fluffy things turning evil,
According to a nosy but trustworthy weevil.
'Right', Arca thought, 'What should I do?
If I'm in disguise, they won't have a clue.'

'I'll set out on a mission in my hood and my cape,
I'll find the kittens, and help them escape.'
So she pootled off to a faraway land,
Called PonyHead Bay, with lots of sand.

This outlandish land was in the North East,
And there she met many mythical beasts,
Like a French tentacle called Jean-Jacques Pierre,
And an Anteater Pony with a pink derrière.

Augustus the porpoise always looked dapper,
And Lenny Featherhead was a notable rapper.
Tarquin Glitterquiff was one of the best,
Half unicorn, half mermaid, with hairs on his chest.

He was a growth hacking entrepreneur,
And an octopus connoisseur.
Anyway, whilst Arca was trotting the shores,
She started to notice some rather faint doors...

Save kittens. Save the universe.

www.EraseAllKittens.com

Story Poem by Dee Saigal - Chief Scribbler
Illustrations by Leonie Van Der Linde - Chief Pixel Wizard